

DR. AVERY F. GORDON

Collective intelligence and preparation:

a story of running away

Wednesday, October 7, 2015 | 4:10-6PM

Wilson Hall 1017, New College (40 Willcocks St.)

An old story of running away is retold and the question of what happens if really there isn't any new information to report, the runaways ate their fake papers resolving to Own nothing! and the first-person accounts are still missing? Will this old story that cannot be verified be of any use to those looking for escape routes today? In this talk, Dr. Gordon will present some items from the Hawthorn Archive that focus on the story of Eliza Winston and make a couple of general remarks about running away.

This talk is free and no registration is required. For additional information, please contact:
joanne.saliba@utoronto.ca

Women & Gender Studies Institute
UNIVERSITY OF TORONTO